Artist Statement:

I am essentially a voyeur. From early childhood I would pass the time starrng into windows at dusk or dawn and imagining the life going on inside these strangers' homes. I love contemplating people on the street, on a bus, in a shopping mall. I make up stories about them, defined by how I think they appear. My artwork is often humorous and also very often political and may or may not be humorous. It is my way of defining visually, the human condition. Making art, puts life into a perspective for me. I find answers to questions by visually sculpting, painting, recording and telling stories.
